

A man with light brown hair and a beard stands in a lumber yard. He is wearing a high-visibility work jacket that is bright lime green on the top half and dark grey on the bottom half, with reflective silver stripes. He is also wearing blue jeans and black work boots. The background consists of large stacks of lumber, with some stacks showing a reddish-brown stain. The ground is covered with fallen leaves.

PROTECTING GENERATIONS SINCE 1896

Charles O. Tingley

OUR MISSION

Because you're tough and hardworking... we need to be too.

We understand that you work hard, often in tough conditions. Your work is as demanding as it is important and you deserve to be safe, comfortable and protected in any environment. Mud, rain, chemicals, traffic, wind, darkness – the elements and hazards are no match for the durability, reliability and protection that Tingley boots and apparel provide.

DESIGNED TO PROTECT

Behind every Tingley product is 125 years of quality and excellence.

Tingley has been protecting generations since its founding by Charles O. Tingley in 1896. From its humble beginnings as a bicycle tire plug company, this US-based, 5th generation family-run business has innovated and grown to offer a full line of protective, liquid-proof footwear and clothing. From the first rubber overshoe and the first Hazmat boots to exterior-coated polyurethane protective clothing with sealed seams, Tingley has been and will continue to be a leader in innovation and protection.

HARD WORK NEVER GOES OUT OF STYLE

Find products that provide the comfort and safety you deserve.
